Did you know...?

Many small towns in the late 1800s and early 1900s boasted an opera house. Tremont had two! "Opera house" is probably not what we would call them today, as they were mostly used for special gatherings such as traveling minstrel troupes, ball games, plays, graduations, balls and such.

At the museum we have some artifacts from the lesser known (to us) Masonic Opera House. It was located at the corner of N. Sampson and Park Streets.

Now our plea-the museum has no photos or other information about this opera house. It was built at the turn of the century. Please be on the lookout in old scrapbooks, etc, for mention of the Masonic Opera House or photos!
